- 7.1.1 The Supplier shall ensure that only new and authentic parts are delivered to Stirling. Unless otherwise specified on the purchase order or approved in writing by Stirling and accepted by Stirling's customer, Stirling will not accept refurbished parts, reprogrammed parts or parts with bent, formed or oxidized leads, test dots or test markings.
- 7.1.2 The Supplier shall notify Stirling if the parts quoted or delivered to Stirling are from an independent distributor located in Asia, India or Africa.
- 7.1.3 The Supplier shall ensure that suspect, fraudulent or counterfeit parts are not delivered to Stirling using their own counterfeit parts quality procedure.
- 7.1.4 Stirling shall use the following results, reports or documents to determine suspect, fraudulent or counterfeit products:
- (a) Stirling's test and inspection;
 - (b) Test Laboratory test and inspection;
 - (c) Stirling's customer's test and inspection;
 - (d) Government letters.
- 7.1.5 Suspect, fraudulent and counterfeit parts have no value and if it is later determined that suspect, fraudulent or counterfeit parts were received by Stirling from the Supplier, then any contract terms limiting the Supplier's liabilities and/or warranties shall be deemed unenforceable. Furthermore, any contract documents establishing a transaction involving suspect, fraudulent or counterfeit parts shall be declared null and void. In this case, Stirling will not disburse or release monies; Stirling is entitled to an immediate refund of all monies paid by Stirling in relation to the contact; and Stirling is entitled to an immediate refund of all monies paid by Stirling in escrow.
- 7.1.6 The Supplier has the right to agree with or dispute Stirling's findings. If the original component manufacturer determines the suspect parts are authentic, then the decision is "final". The Supplier and Stirling hereby agree that if Stirling or a testing laboratory chosen by Stirling determines that the parts supplied are suspect, fraudulent or counterfeit, then the Supplier has the right to:
- (a) Agree with Stirling's findings and the transaction will be voided; or
 - (b) Dispute Stirling's findings by contracting an independent test laboratory for further test and verification. The choice of laboratory shall be agreed by Stirling and the Supplier.
- 7.1.7 If the Supplier accepts Stirling's findings and chooses to immediately void the transaction, the suspect parts will not be returned to the Supplier unless and/or until an independent test laboratory agreed by both the Supplier and Stirling determines that the parts are not suspect counterfeit or counterfeit. Stirling shall retain possession of the suspect parts for a period at least as long as the applicable statute of limitations under UK law following the date upon which the Supplier received notification from Stirling that it was choosing to immediately void the transaction between them.

- 7.1.8 If the Supplier exercises its right to have an independent test laboratory determine whether the suspect parts are counterfeit and the test laboratory verifies the findings that the subject parts are either suspect counterfeit or counterfeit, then the Supplier must issue an immediate refund of all monies paid by Stirling. If the suspect parts are determined to be suspect counterfeit or counterfeit by the independent test laboratory, then the Supplier of those parts shall be required to pay for all charges issued by the testing laboratory. If, however, the suspect parts are determined not to be suspect counterfeit or counterfeit, then Stirling shall be required to pay all of the charges issued by the testing laboratory.
- 7.1.9 Stirling shall have the absolute right to reacquire possession of the subject parts from the test laboratory in order to prevent the subject parts from being offered for sale through any channel of distribution. In the event that the Supplier pursues its Supplier, either in civil or criminal proceedings. The Supplier shall have the right upon request to receive and use a mutually agreeable sample quantity of the parts sold for the purpose of pursuing its remedies. Upon completion of testing, samples will be returned to the Supplier who will then return them to Stirling.
- 7.1.10 If suspect counterfeit parts are accepted by the UK courts, then destruction of evidence is only allowed once approval from those bodies has been granted. After destruction approval has been granted, then Stirling shall have the absolute right to destroy the suspect parts. If declined, or if there is no response received within 90 days, then the Supplier and Stirling agree that Stirling shall have the absolute right to destroy the suspect parts after expiration of the applicable statute of limitations under the appropriate UK law.
- 7.1.11 Notwithstanding the above, if the Supplier and Stirling agree in writing that the parts can be immediately destroyed, the parts will be destroyed per their agreement so long as all civil or criminal actions, in which the suspect parts are the subject of the action, have been completed.
- 7.1.12 Product seized by U.S. Customs and Border Protection will not be returned to the Supplier. The Supplier can attempt to dispute these findings by providing Stirling with supply chain traceability and/or test and inspection report on the seized product.
- 7.1.13 Stirling has the right to report suspect, fraudulent or counterfeit parts to Data Reporting Centers (e.g. ERAI, GIDEP, ESCO, etc.). Stirling will generate the report utilizing the form and format provided by the Data Reporting Center.

- 19.1 Force majeure: Neither Stirling nor the Supplier shall be liable to the other as a result of any delay or failure to perform its obligations under the Contract if and to the extent such delay or failure is caused by an event or circumstance which is beyond the reasonable control of that party which by its nature could not have been foreseen by such a party or if it could have been foreseen was unavoidable. If such event or circumstances prevent the Supplier from providing any of the Services for more than 20 Business Days, Stirling shall have the right, without limiting its other rights or remedies, to terminate this Contract with immediate effect by giving written notice to the Supplier.
